THE CHINA MAIL.

HONGKONG, MONDAY, MAY 22, 1876.

ONE important step taken in California in regard to the immigration of the Chinese on which we have not previously commented was the appointment by the Senate of a Committee to sit and take evidence on the subject. It must be admitted, however, that the evidence elicited has not been of a very valuable nature. Among other witnesses examined was ex-Governor Low, who was formerly United States Minister in China. Many residents in this Colony will be surprised and not particularly gratified to learn on the authority of no less a personage than Mr Low that "not one Chinaman in a thousand who comes to this country (California) but belongs to Hongkong." This is what Mr Low is reported to have said, but considering the lengthened residence of that gentleman in China, and the excellent position he occupied for gaining information on the subject on which he was speaking, we can only presume that his remarks at the sitting of the Committee have been misreported. Seeing that the native population of Hongkong has never been much over a hundred thousand, and hull was sold by auction and fetched $300. The Danish barque Fyen met a similar fate and the hull was sold for $50. Captain Brochwald of the Travinta, with his wife and child, the Captain and crew of the Fyen and second officer of the Sudan were brought to Hongkong in the Ariadne. The British barque Yarra is disarmed. At Taiwanfoot the disaster reported—Gar. barque Wilhelm and Danish schooner Auguste Reimers are total wrecks; British brig Leonore is on the shoals, but may possibly be got off, British brig Marie Helena and Elliot missing, and the British barque Forget-me-not has lost anchors, chains and mizen-mast.

The Captain of the Yarra refused the offer of Captain Kuhn of the Ariadne, to tow him to Hongkong.

Hoihow.

15th April, 1876.

Since our last advice, trade enquiries have been very brisk, and it is pretty certain that had three or four chests of opium been imported, the drug would have found purchasers at the importer's own prices. The large importation of piece goods per Washi found a ready sale at six months' credit. Telescopes are in brisk demand, as the entire mercantile and official community is solely occupied in looking for steamers that do not arrive. Even a very superior microscope might have been advantageously disposed of with a warranty that it would enable the purchaser to find out where the long-promised British man-of-war is lying. The weather is getting warm, and there have been heavy falls of rain; quinine is, consequently, in great demand. The Washi is just in from Haiphong, and we understand has got a full cargo and several passengers engaged for her at profitable rates; but we regret to hear that she takes away the most enterprising member of the mercantile community, he having declared that the commercial prospects of Hoihow are greatly in excess of his aspirations, and that the field is too promising for him to work single handed.

A proposal is on the tapis to give him a public farrow, and an influential Committee has been formed to make fitting arrangements for an imposing ceremony. We believe that the intention is to have a procession of boats, headed by the Consular sloop (For), from Fort Egmont to the West Pier, at which point leave will be taken of our departing friend with three cheers for his safe and speedy return to his happy home. The proposal for a public banquet in his honor has, we are informed, fallen through, owing to the lamentable paucity of knives and forks, and the difficulty of procuring a sufficient variety of viands and wines for so auspicious an occasion. The light "Dispatch," which came down in tow of the Washi on the 2nd inst., had to be left behind here on account of her leaky condition. The enterprising pioneer of British commerce immediately took charge of her in the interests of her owners, had her towed in and beached opposite this town. No less than twenty-five men were employed to overhaul her, and after three days' hard work they succeeded in caulking seven feet of one seam. She is now ready being got into a fit condition to proceed to her destination, Haiphong.

OUTING SHRUBS.

Lai Afun, a coolie, was charged by I. P. O. 655 with cutting shrubs in the New Garden. Defendant stated: I was cutting grass; the constable took the knife from me and cut the shrubs and made me carry them. Fined $2 or in default 7 days' imprisonment with hard labor, and to be exposed in the stocks at the Bridge for one hour.

UNLAWFUL POSSESSION.

Pang Ahing, a carpenter, was fined five pounds, or in default 3 months' imprisonment with hard labor, for the unlawful possession of two lbs. of old nails and copper.

Chan Chun Choi, a marine hawker, was fined 60 shillings or in default sentenced to one month's imprisonment with hard labor for the unlawful possession of a soap-stone ornament.

BLASTING STONES.

Chan Ashing, master of "Sun Shing Long," stone quarry at Shaukiwan, was summoned by Inspector Youngson for blasting stones in his quarry to the danger of persons passing on the public road. Defendant stated he was not there at the time; his men told him that the red flag was placed on the hill. Fined $10 or in default 14 days' imprisonment.

DRUNK.

Henry Fitzpatrick and John Bradon, firemen, were charged, 1st with being drunk and damaging a street chair; 2nd with being drunk and refusing to pay chair hire and tearing a police uniform coat. Defendants said they did not know anything of the occurrence. 1st defendant fined $2 and to pay 30 cents amends for damaging the street chair, or in default 4 days' imprisonment; 2nd defendant fined $2 and to pay 20 cents amends chair hire and 20 cents amends for damaging police coat uniform or in default 4 days' imprisonment.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER.

Ho Ah, a prisoner in Victoria Gaol, was charged with cutting and wounding, with intent to murder, one Badilo Rooba, a prisoner. The prisoner was a convict under three years' penal servitude, from June 1874. The case was remanded till the 23rd inst.

(Before James Russell, Esq.)
May 22, 1876.

John O'Neil, a seaman of the British ship Lock Leven Castle, was charged with stabbing a fellow-seaman on board the ship at Manila. He was forwarded by H. B. M. Consul there to Hongkong for trial, and arrived here by the steamer Kameralda. The prisoner was remanded till to-morrow. We learn that the wounded man has since died.

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD.

The charge against Robert Duncan and M. J. Rozario, for conspiracy to defraud the Hongkong and Whampoa Dock Company, was proceeded with before Mr Russell at the Police Court this morning.

Mr Brereton appeared for the prosecution. Mr Kingsmill, instructed by Mr Denny, appeared for the defence of Mr Duncan; and Mr Handley, instructed by Messrs Stephens and Holmes, for Mr Rozario.

Mr R. F. Addyman was recalled.—(Document marked X was put into his hands.) I have seen this document; it was dated 31st March 1875. Yee Hing wrote it.

Mr Brereton: How came you to know it?

A: Because Mr Duncan wanted the money. Yee Hing brought it to me, and I sent it over to Kowloon to get it signed in the ordinary course of business.

Mr Brereton: Do you know to whom that metal belonged?

A: I know it belonged to Mr Duncan. I knew it then; Yee Hing made it out at the suggestion of Mr Duncan.

Mr Kingsmill: How do you know?

The Court: Yee Hing made it out at the suggestion of Mr Duncan. How came you to know that?

A: Because the paper was fetched to me by Yee Hing, when the metal belonged to Mr Duncan.

The Court: Do you know whose writing was that on the bill?

A: Yee Hing's.

The Court: Can you swear to it?

A: I believe it was. It was the same as that on bills Yee Hing usually sent in.

Mr Brereton: How do you know that the metal belonged to Mr Duncan?

A: I bought the metal from Schellhaas & Co. I bought 5,000 sheets. I bought in my own name for Mr Duncan.

The Court: Was it by his directions?

A: Yes, and I paid for it after Mr Duncan lent me money. Mr Duncan gave me a cheque. Over 3,000 sheets were sold to a Captain, and the quantity stated in the bill would make up the balance of the metal bought of Schellhaas & Co. I bought "to arrive," and I took delivery of it on arrival.

The Court: Where did you store it?

A: I stored it over at Kowloon. A man in the Yee Hing shop accompanied me.

The Court: Did you take it over to the Kowloon Docks of your own motion?

A: No, Sir, by order of Mr Duncan. Magistrate: Did you negotiate the sale to the Captain yourself?

A: I did so by order of Mr Duncan. I sold it to Captain Mallin of the Atlantic. Mr Duncan was present at the time of the sale in the office. My name was employed in the sale, because Mr Duncan did not wish his name to appear.

Mr Kingsmill: How do you know that?

A: He told me so.

The Court: What did he say; what were the actual words? When did he tell you so?

A: He said so to me when I went to buy the metal. He said, "I do not want my name to appear."

The Court: Now, he told you to buy in your name, he did not tell you to sell in his name.

Witness: He told me to sell in my name too. When I took the metal to the Docks at Kowloon, I think on the 7th August, I gave it to the charge of Mr Rozario, the 2nd defendant. I told him that it was my metal for the time being, but that it really belonged to Mr Duncan.

The Court: When Mallin bought this metal of you, by what means was he to get this metal from Kowloon?

A: He was to have it from Mr Rozario at Kowloon. I think I wrote a chit to Mr Rozario on the subject. I learnt from Mr Rozario the quantity delivered to Mallin.

The Court: Have you got any memo. of that?

A: Yes, Sir.

The Court: Where is it?

A: I have given it up!

The Court: To whom?

A: To Mr Keewick.

The Magistrate then asked Mr Brereton where that paper was.

Mr Brereton then handed in a file of papers.

Witness: Having got the return of the quantity supplied to Mallin, I made out a bill to him in my own name—as the seller. I made out from the return that there were still 1570 sheets in store in my name after deducting what had been supplied to Mallin.

The Court: What became of the 1570 sheets?

A: They were put into the stock of the Company.

Q: By whose order?

A: I wrote to Mr Rozario, telling him to do so. I got paid from Mallin; the amount was $4,975.44. I told Yee Hing to make out a bill for 1570 sheets—(bill annexed).

Mr Brereton: Why did you write to Mr Rozario to put the 1570 into the stock?

Witness: Because Mr Duncan asked me for the balance of the money so advanced to me by a cheque, and I did not like to make out a bill against the Company in my own name, and he said, "tell Yee Hing to do it." I told Yee Hing so. I asked Mr Duncan what rate to charge. He said "$28 per pieul," i.e., a profit of 50 cents a pieul. Yee Hing then made out the bill and brought it to me. This bill was subjected to the same process as the other bills before it was passed. It turned out, however, that the bill did not bear the signature of the Secretary, as in all other cases. It was then paid by a cheque in the name of Yee Hing. It was handed to Yee Hing, who received it. I saw it. I won't be sure that he put the stamp on as well. Yee Hing then handed over the cheque to Mr Duncan, at the same time I think. I saw it. Mr Duncan was present at the time.

Mr Brereton: Now, you acted in this case throughout as an agent of Mr Duncan?

A: Yes, I acted for Mr Duncan.

Q: Did you derive any profit from this transaction?

A: He gave me $30. Afterwards I handed back the money to him, and he gave me a compendious order on the office comptroller.

The Court: Where is that paper?

Mr Brereton: I don't know; I haven't seen it.

Witness then pointed to a paper dated 12th January 1875.

The Court: That is not an official order?

A: No, Sir, a private order. I never presented the paper for payment.

The Court: Why did you not?

Mr Brereton: What is the course pursued every month in regard to payments for these employees at Kowloon?

A: A cheque was made by the chief clerk at Kowloon at the time they were drawn. The cheques and list were then handed over by the chief clerk to the office. He gave them to me; I compared them with the pay-list. The Secretary then signed the cheques and compared them with the abstract which accompanied them. They were then handed to the chief clerk, who took them to the comptroller. The comptroller then paid the men in his room at the office and sometimes they were paid at Messrs. Douglas Lapraik's office.

The comptroller having paid the bills, he handed them back to the chief clerk who kept the cash book. He then handed them to me, and I filed them.

Witness: That is in the hand-writing of Mr Rozario. It was handed to me with the cheques, in the usual course. Item No. 1 was a payment to Asing. The comptroller paid when he was marked G and dated 27th February is the one referred to in schedule under the name of Asing, No. 1 carpenter. Document now shown me is similar to Z. It is a list of cheques. There is a payment there to Asing of $6504.98. The ordermarked Aa. is the comptroller's order in reference to it.

By Mr Kingsmill:—The metal sold to Mallin was in the store at Kowloon.

Mr Kingsmill: Where was the ship?

A: It was then in the Kowloon Docks.

Q: Would you swear that there were 1570 sheets in store?

A: I saw the whole 50 cases taken, and there must have been that quantity left. There was put into the stock and used.

Q: Now, you spoke of having handed some papers to Mr Keewick. When?

A: I think it must have been either in January or February of this year?

Q: Had you those papers in the office all the time?

A: Yes.

Q: Did you put them in the pigeon-holes among the records of the office, or put them in your private pigeon-hole?

A: I kept them for a while among the office papers, and then I took them away and put them away in my private pigeon-hole. (Witness here altered his statement, and said that the papers were not kept among office papers, but had been put away privately.)

Q: How did Mr Duncan pay the $30?

A: In notes.

Q: You said you returned him the money. Did you hand him back the notes?

A: I put all the money I got from him on his desk? I got the $30 after I got payment for the metal. I returned the $30 to him in the afternoon of the same day.

Q: How long was it after you got payment for the metal that Mr Duncan gave you the $30?

A: The same afternoon.

Q: How long did you have the money in your possession that you received for the metal?

A: I forgot how long, but I did not have it for a day.

Q: How long had you the $30 in your possession?

A: Not very long.

Q: Well, how long?

A: Perhaps half-an-hour.

Q: When did you first know that this invoice of metal had arrived?

A: When Mr Duncan told me so.

Q: Who were the shippers?

A: I don't know; it came through Schellhaas & Co. Witness voluntarily.—The whole thing was suggested to me by Mr. Duncan. I should never have thought of buying the metal.

The Court: You have told us that Mr Handley asked no question.

Re-examined by Mr Brereton:—I could not say for certain that the balance was put into the stock of the Company, but I honestly believe that it had been passed to the Company. In a few months after, the Company was short of metal and had to buy metal.

The Court: You had to buy metal a few months afterwards; did you have metal of the same sort?

A: No, Sir.

Q: Why did you accept the $30 at all?

A: Because he wished me to take it. Mr Rozario always brought over the pay-sheets and comptroller's orders to the head office and handed them to me. After examination, I handed the lists, cheques and pay-sheets to the Secretary for examination. He examined the cheques and schedules and ticked them off. Exhibits marked Z and Aa. were examined and checked by Mr Duncan. I had handed him the pay-sheets for signature before this. The accounts were sent in sometimes soon and sometimes late; everything was very irregular. The Secretary sometimes signed before the Directors and sometimes the Directors signed before the Secretary.

The Court: How came this to be?

A: Because sometimes the Directors came to the office purposely to sign the accounts.

The Court: And the Directors then signed before the Secretary had seen them?

A: Yes, Sir. (A document here put into witness' hand). The one marked D, was the pay-list for January; it was signed by two Directors.

The Court: Now do you know whether the Directors signed that first or the Secretary?

A: I cannot say positively. The red ink word "Secretary" was mine. I always write that as soon as I have satisfied myself that the account is correct. It is so written where the Secretary is to sign. It is written in before the account is submitted to the Secretary or Directors. As a rule the Secretary ought to have signed before the Directors.

Mr Russell: Can you call to mind any exception to this rule?

A: Yes, once when Mr Duncan was ill. The directors then took my signature.

Q: What do you mean by their taking your signature?

A: That is, they signed after I had signed. I know that Mr Duncan had put his name to pay-sheets before Mr Duncan signed. He used then to order me to get the Secretary to sign.

Q: Did any other director except Mr Duncan do that?

A: I don't remember. I sometimes had to take the pay-sheets to the directors to sign at their own offices.

Q: Then two directors did not come to the office together to scrutinize the accounts?

A: No, Sir.

Q: Did you never get any other director to sign without having previously obtained the signature of Mr Duncan?

A: I don't think I ever did, and the reason is Mr Duncan was always in a hurry. Mr Duncan was once vice-chairman. It does not necessarily stand that because a signature of a director appeared first that he signed first. There is no rule about the order of the signatures. That pay list for April 1875 was signed previously I think, by the Secretary before the directors.

The Court: Why did you take a man of the Yee Hing shop with you?

A: Because Mr Duncan told me it would be better.

Chin a Hop was next called:—I am employed in my brother's shop, the Yee Hing; I have been so employed for the last 8 or 9 years. I know the bill marked X. One day I went to the Dock Company's office, and Mr Addyman told me to make out a bill. He had a piece of paper and told me to copy from that, so I took the paper to my shop and made out this bill. Mr Duncan and a friend of his were in the office. Having made out the bill, I took it to Mr Addyman; I don't remember what other persons were present then. The Yee Hing shop never sold that metal. Mr Addyman had not asked me to fill up bills of that kind before nor after, but Mr Duncan had both before and after the occasion in question.

The witness was not cross-examined.

The Court was then adjourned for a short time.

When the Court resumed, Ng Apul, comptroller to the Dock Company, was recalled:—I paid the wages for the men of the Company for January 1875. I entered the payments made in a book at the time the money was paid. I paid out $7,170.96 in all on the 4th March 1875. I paid this sum as wages to the men. I paid Asing, some clerks and others. I think I paid over $8000 to Asing out of the total sum of $7,170. I paid him in notes and in dollars. Mr Rozario was present when I paid Asing.

Mr Brereton: Did you make any payment to Mr Rozario?

Mr Handley objected.

Mr Brereton said the witness had said that he paid him wages.

Mr Handley: I don't object then.

Mr Brereton: Now, can you tell what Asing did with the money he received from you?

A: He went out with it and paid some money.

Q: Did you actually see Asing pay the money?

A: Yes, I did.

Q: Who were those that he paid?

A: I don't know, but I saw a lot of men following him. I did not see him do anything with the money before he left the office. I made some payments for April 1875. I paid $11,235.60 that was on account of Kowloon for that month. I paid out of this sum to Asing over $6000. Mr Rozario was present when Asing was paid. I did not notice what he did with the money. He left the office after receiving the money.

By Mr Handley:—When I said about Mr Rozario's receiving some money, it was his own wages, and money he received for others.

Mr A. E. Cope, an assistant in the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, was called:—I am assistant accountant in the Hongkong Office. I recognize the cheque marked S. It was from the Dock Company, and dated 17th December 1875. It was signed by two directors and the Secretary. The cheque was paid by transferring its amount to the current account of another constituent of that Bank. I can tell this on the face of the cheque, which was made out to Asing or bearer. It was endorsed by Mr Duncan. It was transferred to the credit of Perkins and Son.

Mr Brereton: Do you know Perkins and Son have any attorney in the Colony?

A: Mr Duncan is their attorney.

A cheque was put into witness' hand. Mr Kingsmill objected to the witness being examined on it, as it had not been identified by any one.

Chin Pui Wing, master of the Yee Hing ship, was recalled to settle the point.

Cheque put into his hand:—I have seen it before. It had some of my writing on it. This cheque was given me by Mr Addyman. I said Mr B. Walker this cheque; I gave it to his comptroller, Young Shih Po. I owed Mr Walker some money for goods I bought of him.

The Court: What did Mr Addyman give you the cheque for?

Mr Kingsmill objected on the ground that it had nothing to do with Mr Duncan. The Magistrate said it might have a great deal to do with Mr Duncan, and he would not the objection.

A: Mr Addyman told me to receive the money for Mr Duncan.

The Magistrate: Was that cheque given you for any goods you supplied to Addyman?

A: No, I did not supply him with any goods.

Mr Brereton: Having got the cheque from Mr Addyman with certain directions, why did you pay it over to B. Walker?

The Magistrate said we had that answer before. He paid it because he owed Mr B. Walker some money.

Mr Brereton: Why did you not carry out the directions Mr Addyman gave you?

Mr Kingsmill objected.

Witness: Five or six days after I received the cheque, Mr Duncan came to my shop and I paid him in bank-notes.

Ng Sang, comptroller to Messrs Douglas Lapraik & Co., was called: I know the Dock Company's Comptroller. I have been present when he paid money to people. He frequently paid money in our office, —comptroller's office. I have seen those payments made monthly. The money from which these payments were made was kept in our treasury because the Dock Comptroller had no room in the Dock office to keep it. The payments passed through my hands, and the Dock Comptroller was alongside of me.

The Court was then adjourned till

Thursday, the 25th, at 10.30 a.m.

Mr Russell observed that he had gone very carefully into the case, and had come to the conclusion, that having regard to its magnitude, he did not think he could extend Mr Duncan's bail—certain things having developed themselves to-day which had not developed before. A Magistrate had power to refuse bail in any case, and the reason he allowed Mr Duncan bail in the first instance was because he (Mr D.) had appeared on a summons. He then read from a law-book on the subject of bail.

Mr Kingsmill, in applying for bail, urged that what had transpired to-day was no worse than what was revealed before, in fact what had now taken place should form ground for lessening bail instead of refusing it.
